WHO WE ARE

The Canadian Bureau for International Education (CBIE) is Canada's only national organization dedicated exclusively to the promotion of international education. We are a non-profit, membership organization engaged in international education policy, practice, development and advocacy.

150+ MEMBERS

Our pan-Canadian membership includes more than 150 universities, colleges, institutes, school boards and language schools representing the full spectrum of education in Canada.

Our mission is to mobilize expertise, knowledge, opportunity and leadership to promote Canadian international education.

50 YEARS

Over the last 50 years, CBIE has developed a deep knowledge of academic programs by working alongside member universities and colleges in Canada and with partner institutions abroad.

2016 CONFERENCE

CBIE's 50th Annual Conference will take place November 13-16 at the Westin Ottawa in the heart of the nation's capital.

This year's theme, Internationalization for All, looks at how we can reframe internationalization to engage all members of the learning community. Traditionally, the internationalization of education has been associated with mobility, including study, research and internships abroad; research collaboration conducted across borders; and international events, promotion and recruitment. However, despite best efforts, it is not possible for all students, faculty and international education professionals to undertake mobility experiences. This year's theme looks at how we can rethink internationalization so that it has a wider reach and benefit for all.
