Learning Beyond Borders
2017 annual report
"CBIE has meant many things to my institution over the years: as an advocate for international student immigration policy, a source of high quality sponsored students, and a forum for connecting with colleagues — but in recent years its most valued contribution has been CBIE’s support for the new generation of international educators in Canada. I have observed tremendous growth in the professional skills of my staff from CBIE’s attention to our emerging leaders in the field and this will have a lasting impact on international education in Canada."

— SONJA KNUTSON, MEMORIAL UNIVERSITY OF NEWFOUNDLAND
This year we are celebrating the launch of our signature initiative Learning Beyond Borders: A National Conversation on Learning Abroad and Canada’s Global Engagement Challenge. We officially launched on February 23, 2017 with the support of over 90 member institutions who committed to raising awareness of the benefits of learning abroad and to specific actions to get more of their students to take advantage of learning abroad experiences. The high level of engagement is an indication of just how important our member institutions view this initiative to address barriers to learning abroad and making learning abroad an essential component of a Canadian education. It’s a long term commitment but one that we all view as critical to the future of Canada and its place in the future innovative economy.

In April we were awarded a project to conduct research on the impact of executive education in the financial sector of sub-Saharan Africa by Financial Sector Deepening Africa (FSDA), a large NGO based in Nairobi. This project was conducted in four African countries: Ghana, Uganda, Cameroon and South Africa with our partner, the University of New Brunswick. The objective of this study was to develop key insights for business schools and other training providers in Africa to improve their course/training delivery and develop more compelling course offerings for prospective students and employers. The official launch of this report by FSDA is planned to take place in Uganda in fall of 2017.

At our 50th Annual Conference in Ottawa, Ms. Elissa Goldberg, then Assistant Deputy Minister of Partnerships for Development Innovation, announced that the Canadian Bureau for International Education (CBIE) had been awarded a multi-year project, Launching Economic Achieve-ment Program (LEAP) for women in Jordan. The project will support women’s empowerment for sustainable economic growth in Jordan through the development of a business incubator for women and an entrepreneurial module training program, and delivery of a Leaders and Entrepreneurs Program to girls throughout Jordan. CBIE is leading the project consortium which includes our member Ryerson University bringing valuable expertise and experience in skills development and entrepreneurship for women. Two Jordanian partners, INJAZ and the Business and Professional Women Association – Amman (BPWA) are important on-the-ground players in the implementation of the project.

We are proud to share that CBIE’s development efforts through the Global Affairs support- ed Quality and Accessible Legal Aid in Ukraine (QALA) Project were featured in the United Nations’ A Better World: Actions and Commitments to the Sustainable Development Goals publication as one of the Government of Canada’s key contributions to SDG 16. Just, peaceful and inclusive societies. Through this institutional capacity-building project, designed and implemented by CBIE, a new system of state-funded and administered legal aid in Ukraine has had considerable success since its creation in 2012, featuring over 540 points of service, and deploying over 5,000 lawyers and more than 2,240 employees. Since the inception of the legal aid system, nearly half a million vulnerable persons have benefited from improved access to justice all across Ukraine.

In May 2017 we launched the International Students and Immigration Education Program (ISIEP). The program covers the scope of immigration policies and practices pertinent to international students and will be a cornerstone professional development offering within our sector, made possible with the support of our member coast to coast. The program is a pre-requisite to writing the Immigration Consultants of Canada Regulatory Council’s (ICCRC) entry-to-practice exam to become a Registered International Student Immigration Adviser (RISIA). To date we have completed a fall and winter semester and we are happy to report that all students who wrote their exams passed!

As our 50th year comes to an end we are right where we should be: looking back with pride but looking forward with purpose in supporting Canadian and international students to realize their dreams through learning abroad.

As always I am deeply grateful for your ongoing passion and support for this noble cause.

Karen McBride
President and CEO

As I complete my first year as Chair of the Board of the Canadian Bureau for International Education (CBIE), I am pleased to report that we continue to build on the momentum in exec- uting the 2015-2018 strategic plan. In particular the Global Learning Outcomes priority led with the launch of our signature initiative Learning Beyond Borders. In this, CBIE is focused on making learning abroad a reality for a critical mass of students and in so doing catalyzing a culture shift in Canada. Many of our member institutions are raising awareness of the value of learning abroad and identifying and addressing the barriers that prevent students from undertaking a learning abroad experience.

CBIE’s 50th Anniversary Annual Conference in Ottawa was both nostalgic and yet inspiring as it paid tribute to the vision and commitment of one of its original members: Professor Thomas H.B. Symons, bestowing on him the Canadian Bureau for International Education Founders’ Award at the gala evening. It was the perfect time to recognize this pioneer in the field of international education and serendipitous that the first recipient of the Founders Award, CBIE’s patron his Excellency the Right Honourable David Johnston, Governor General of Canada, was able to provide opening remarks to acknowledge this milestone year and to speak about the importance of our national conversation on learning abroad. With his retirement in September 2017 this will be the Governor General’s last official duty as CBIE’s patron and I think you will agree with me that he couldn’t have been a better champion of this vision.

On a world scale, we live at a time of increasing uncertainty as many governments struggle with policies that impact international students. I believe it is important to acknowledge Canada as a role model leader that supports international student mobility and the positive outcomes it provides. CBIE administers the Libyan-North American Scholarship Program (LNASP) which supports approximately 1,000 Libyan students on scholarship in the US and over 500 in Canada. Decisions made in other countries often run counter to the aspirations of international education generally, as well as to the goal of our Learning Beyond Borders campaign. We are concerned for the well-being of all international students, with a special responsibility towards our Libyan scholarship stu- dents and their families. CBIE continues to work with Libyan authorities to administer the Libyan-financed scholarship program that has brought thousands of young Libyans to Canada’s polytechnics, colleges and universities.

In closing I would like to thank Dr. Patrick Deane for his stewardship over the last two years which has made my transition extremely smooth. It is always a pleasure working with the members of CBIE’s board who are so passionate about ensuring all Canadians have access to learning abroad. I look forward to further discussion and engagement with all CBIE members and partners at our 51st Annual Conference in Halifax.

“CBIE has been an amazing resource and network for me during my career in International Education thus far. Without the support and opportunity provided by conferences, webinars, committees and professional learning communities, I would not have developed the skillset and network of colleagues that I have today, and would not have advanced into my current position. Thank you CBIE!” — POLYTECHNIC MEMBER, ALBERTA
